

bed, let them sleep in it. Send it over to the Governor like that. Then force him to either take all of those cuts, which everybody says are too deep, or make him do something else, whatever he might feel is available for him to do. Do you think he'd veto an entire appropriations measure and say that the cuts are so deep, there is such an extensive mangling of necessary programs that he could not attach his signature to it, and say you guys go over there and play around with it some more, as he ordered earlier and that is being done now? The Budget Committee...the Appropriations Committee must be very desperate to have this thing voted on, and they may get their way. I could see from that earlier vote that you will probably support suspending the rule. If the rule is suspended, you voted to reconsider, that is all. Now the vote is whether the rule will be suspended. If that vote obtains 30 in support, then the rule is suspended and everything stops right there. The next thing on the agenda is to take my pending amendment to the Beutler amendment. Then after you all cease debate, after listening to me and reject the amendment so you can hurry up and get to this one, they are going to make you then vote on this proposition according to the terms that they give it to you. And, you will take it. Then I will have to figure somewhere further down the line a way to try to do something about it. I will do what I think is necessary. Maybe what all of you think is the necessary thing to do is to have the cut in the Beutler amendment with the exemptions he saw fit, including that Lincoln favoritism, which always crops up one way or another, the individual cuts and eliminations of programs...

SPEAKER NICHOL: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...of the Appropriations Committee, plus the 1 percent across the board cut. That is what the Legislature is going to put together and say is responsible, carnival, circus, zoo, mixing oil and water. You can do that if you have an emulsifier, I understand. You can hold something in suspension and it appears to be mixed. Where is the emulsifier, Senator Vard Johnson? If there is no emulsifier, it can't hang together really. Will it separate in the Governor's office? Will it separate here tomorrow after everyone has had a chance for liquid refreshment this evening and come back after getting their orders tonight from whoever they talk too and start all over again? Fine with me. I can do anything for four days and that is all we
